Habitat Gardening Community Event

As our suburbs lose trees and backyards become smaller, habitat for native wildlife is lost, and their populations diminish, with some species at risk of being lost altogether. Any garden, even a small one can become a safe and welcoming shelter for our local birds and insects and provides essential safe passage for small birds between bushland pockets. Learn how you can start making your patch a little wildlife oasis and receive a voucher for CRISP nursery to get you started. As part of Maroondah's Neighbourhood Seedling program, we are hosting a talk from local Olwyn Smiley on planting Indigenous plants and improving biodiversity in your backyard. All those who attend the event will receive a voucher to CRISP, alongside other resources and supplies, to help equip you and your household for successful backyard planting.
